Planning

In these days, such a blend of the art of planning and the dare needed for scientific, requiring planning, economics, industry, social services, in fact in all the organization of our modern life and its varied interests and activities. Indeed, if a person was prepared to understand the art of planning, he would know that the first step of any one concern would be reached namely, that mankind in mass could, it would definitely plan and order its way of life, and clearly and authoritatively, show what that world would work with the simplicity and accuracy of the multiplication table.

But life is not like that; too many contrary factors enter into the home of things and life, too many factors, influences of natural laws which cannot be controlled, which are acting in a way that will prove that will prove weak and fail-proof. As the poet Burns so well expressed it:

The best laid schemes o' mice an' men
Gang aft agley.
An' leav'e us bught but grief and pain,
For promis'd joy.

Two years ago President Roosevelt's "brain trust" decided that the whole economic life of the United States could be planned and charted in advance. They started with the idea of planning the production of every great country so as to overcome and prevent what was to be the evils of over production. It set out to do so, but instead of facing the problem of over production, it got into the act of overproducing, and in this way formula that all that was necessary was to copy what had been grown in Europe, tea, valued at over $3 per pound.

So here we are again, trying to grow wheat, but to stop growing wheat, and so far as we have been destined to stop growing cotton, farmers are paid to quit raising hogs, and so on and so forth. The consumption masses of the people were taxed to the funds whereby to pay these losses, and so on and so forth. The result was that the lack of a plentiful supply of rain sent excessive heat and blistering winds and swirling dust storms, in a brief space of time reduced production over man's most fertile efforts, and so on and so forth. The result was that the shortage of supplies faced the nation instead of an over-production, which over production had actually resulted from a previous form of artificial Planning in the shape of tariffs and other trade restrictions.

Following the Great War, the statesmen of the world assembled in Paris to draft a treaty of peace and to plan the future of Europe and the world. They labored for months, created elaborate international machinery to direct and control affairs, re-arranged the boundaries of countries, and gave birth to new nations. On their plates today goes the world, hailed as a great advance in the cause of world peace and international goodwill and co-operation.

Those who have followed all the passions, prejudices, superstitions, racial and religious animosities, and vagaries of human nature have continued to hold sway over millions of mankind. Much of the planning has proved an abject failure, some of it has been thrown to the discard, and what remains is in danger of being lost.

There has it been amply demonstrated that man cannot direct and control the immutable laws of Nature, nor can he foretell them in any scheme of his own making. He may, however, be able to control himself and order the people instead of the people controlling the governing bodies.

Such a plan may be inaugurated, it may work for a time, but not for long. The plan may be very deep and far-reaching, because man has created a free being with a will, and his own innate intention that he must work for his own salvation. No other power, and least of all a government, can tell him so.

Nevertheless, there must be planning and there must be control and direction. Everything cannot be left haphazard, otherwise chaos and disorder would ensue. But it should be recognized that there are limitations in all planning, and that there are some things which man cannot control and cannot safely be ignored. Nor can the inherent desire and determination of every man to be a free man and enjoy liberty be denied; any attempt to do so will be resisted by the people.

Planning is the instrument of the improvement and advancement in any system that may prevail. It is putting the cart before the horse to try and improve the system first and thereby improve man, it must be the other way round. God made man in His own image, and man in the world, but we are taught to pray that we be not led into temptation.

The proper study of mankind is man, and the proper, only permanent, plan for an individual man, namely, that he so order his life and his activities, his conditions and his passions, as to come within the plan laid down in the Golden Rule. Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you.

Helps Building Industry

Chemistry Comes To Aid With Many New Materials

Even eggs and milk may enter the making of new construction materials in a building boom predicted by famous chemists at the opening session of the American Chemical Society's centenary celebration in the New York.

A boom in the building industry inspired by discoveries of chemists many of those made during the depression was forecast by Prof. James R. Whinow of Ohio State University.

Artificial stones are already made in every color and with any degree of hardness a customer desires. Wood rot and metal rust are both stopped by new chemicals.

Bricks that parake of the lightness of thistledown and other light weight construction materials promise much higher, yet even rarer sky-scrapers.

Queen Mary's Tea Chest

Gift From Ceylon To Be Exhibited In Toronto

Visitors to the Ceylon exhibit at the forthcoming Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto will have an opportunity to see the beautiful chest presented to Her Majesty at Christmas by the Empire Tea Growers Association. The chest is made of wood, rosewood from India, balsa with satinwood and ebony from Ceylon, and purple heart from British Guiana, the woods being left in their natural state at the express with of Her Majesty. The inlay on the lid depicts Queen Mary's royal cypher. When presented to Queen Mary the chest contained fifteen pounds of tea, each grown Empire tea, valued at over $3 per pound.

NOT A RHEUMATIC PAIN FOR 4 YEARS

70-Year-Old Man Praised Kruschen

A man who once suffered severely from rheumatism writes:

"For a long time I suffered with rheumatism, and I have been up and down for about nine weeks. About two years ago I was advised to try hot water baths, and I have continued using them ever since. Kruschen did the trick, as I have not had a single attack since. I am nearly 70 years of age, and feeling fine and always able for my field work - thanks to Kruschen. A.S."

Kruschen dissolves away the needle-pointed crystals of salt which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush these dissolved crystals clean out of the body. You can keep up the 'thin daily dose,' excess tea will never again form again.

Of Canadian Make

Dominion Supplies Medium-Quality Gauntlets For English Motorists

Motorist and motor cyclists in the United Kingdom wear leather gauntlets when driving during the winter. Even though the sun may be bright, saying there are wet? President Roosevelt has taken 40 cents out of every dollar, and he won't pay a dollar of those debts in gold. Furthermore, our Supreme Court sustained that default. So John King is a most bad reputator, what is Uncle Sam?

The fact is the war cost so much that every country which took part in it, including ourselves, has had to repudiate a large part of its war debts."

Another Surgical Find

Human Suffering Reduced By Operation on Pain Nerves

Surgery on the nerves of pain offers hope of reducing human suffering.

The operations possible were reviewed by Francis C. Grant, M.D., of Philadelphia, at the meeting of the American College of Physicians.

Some of the fibres form the bundles of nerves, just as separate fibres form threads, carrying the sensation of pain; others give the movement of pain; others give the movement of pain.

By cutting the pain fibres the spinal cord pain can be stopped in the legs and up into the pelvis. Touch and position nerve fibres remain unimpaired and the movements of the legs are unaffected with the removal of the pain fibres.

Another operation removes a pads of some of the nerves, but is seldom used because, while it relieves pain, it interferes with movement.

Seeking to block the "pain pathways" through the nervous system is the latest method of attack. This has been made successfully for pelvic malignancies and for angina pectoris.

Powerful Searchlight

Thrives Beam Which Will Illuminate Objects Within Fifty Miles

Residents of Pittsburg city gazed with admiration at a beam of light that penetrated the darkness for many miles. It originated from what engineers say is probably the world's most powerful mobile searchlight, undergoing a test prior to its delivery to the United States.

The searchlight is a 60-inch giant and throws a beam of 750,000 candle power. Engineers who built it say the light's concentrated, narrow beam will illuminate any object with in 50 miles. The "detecting" equipment is extremely mobile, carried aboard trucks.

An aeroplane with a 100-foot wing spread flying 20,000 feet high and miles away appears to the human eye to be as big as a wasp.

To find an enemy bombing plane with such conditions and traveling at 250 miles an hour would be quite difficult.

The searchlight is designed to point it, and expose the plane to the fire of anti-aircraft artillery.

Upholding The British

New York Paper Status To State: About War Debts

The New York Daily News says: "We've received a number of unfriendly letters in reply to our editorial in which we said England is right in refusing to pay any more of its war debts to us for the time being. These letters advise us that we are in the pay of the Red-cats, traitors to Uncle Sam, trying to kick the King's boots, etc."

Let's come down to brass tacks. How about our debts to our own people and to any foreigners who happen to owe us? President Roosevelt has taken 40 cents out of every dollar, and he won't pay a dollar of those debts in gold. Furthermore, our Supreme Court sustained that default. So John King is a most bad reputator, what is Uncle Sam?

The fact is the war cost so much that every country which took part in it, including ourselves, has had to repudiate a large part of its war debts."

How Spare Pennies Grow

British Post Office Savings Increased By $28,000,000 Last Year

More pennies and shillings than ever are being put into Post Office Savings Banks in Britain.

The head office has announced that deposits of small savers were up 28 per cent last year to £355,000,000.

They increased by £26,000,000 during last year alone. Over the last two years they have increased by £50,000.

These large sums are made up entirely of occasional spare coins of villagers and townsmen in Britain.

One of the methods of saving is to buy special stamps and stick them in a savings book. When a certain amount has been collected the book is given to the local post office and the amount deposited is credited to the saver's account.

Last year 250,000 "home safes" were issued. These are special post office home money boxes which can be taken to the local post office where the owner deposits the amount and the amount deposited is credited to the saver's account.

A LAST THOUGHT

The election for members of the Board of Trustees for the Eastern Irrigation District will be held on May 25.

There are five candidates running with three to be elected. As we now understand it, voters must place an X beside the names of their choice. There must be three X's on the ballot. If all X is placed beside one name only or two names only the ballot will be spoiled.

This newspaper is not suggesting to voters how they should vote. We do not think it conducive to the welfare of the undertaking that the newspaper should take sides. It savors too much of politics, something that should not be introduced into this affair.

As we view it the entire enterprise is of too much importance to be made a footfall of conflicting interests, and we do not encourage such an attitude. We want to see the spirit of amity among the settlers. Of course the ablest men should be chosen.

The really important thing is to make a success of the Eastern Irrigation district. It can be done by united and concentrated effort.

Dismay, distress and internal conflict can kill the most promising adventure in co-operative effort ever undertaken by a group of farmers in this province.

Let us not let that happen. Let us be big enough and broad-minded enough to avoid such a calamity. Let us all vote conscientiously in the best interests of the district.

COMMEMORATING A GREAT QUEEN

The 24th of May is still a public holiday, long after the death of Victoria, great queen of the British Empire, whose birthday is thus commemorated.

British rule brought strength of power and glory under the benevolent reign of Queen Victoria, such as no nation of the world has ever achieved.

British industries expanded at an astonishing rate, under the impetus of steam power, generated from British coal mines and through the enterprise and energy of her traders.

British ships by the hundreds plowed the Seven Seas, carrying the Union Jack to the furthestmost points of the earth's surface.

Britain expanded her empire until she encircled the world maps with her trail of red.

Victoria was a good queen, a noble queen, and well may the British Empire remember her birthday.

"Her court was pure, her life serene
God gave her peace, her land reposed
A thousand claims to reverence closed
In her as mother, wife and queen."

GARDEN TIME IS HERE

It's garden time now and those whose inclinations incline towards horticulture are in their glory.

There is a satisfaction and a pleasure to the true gardener in preparing his (her) plot of ground and sowing the seeds in springtime.

With what lavish care are all details attended to and the innsentate seed - entrust to the alchemy of Mother Earth, there to be restored to life and growth.

How carefully is a watch kept to see the first tender green sprout!

There is a soul-satisfaction in gardening to the true gardener that no other occupation can provide. It is a primitive feeling, a blood strain handed down from long generations of men and women.

Nice, neatly-kept gardens are a decoration to any town and an ornament to any farm. A beautiful garden is like a jewel in a handsome setting.

FOLLOWING THE LEAD

Not many months ago, when the nations bordering on the Pacific ocean sent representatives to Banff, in our own Rocky mountains, to discuss mutual problems and world affairs, an address by Prof. Gregory of the College of London, England, was broadcasted.

This eminent economist was talking about the efforts of the government of the United States to win back a measure of prosperity to that country. He said that the plans adopted, while praiseworthy, were based on false premises and failure was inevitable.

Strange to say, at the present time most of the great world nations are following the example set by the United States. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and other countries, are devising public works on which huge amounts are spent, to provide work and wages for unemployed millions.

Vast appropriations are also being made for social purposes. Few are following the advice of the old school of economics, of which Prof. Gregory is an ardent advocate.

Wealth is being redistributed through the incidence of taxation at present, and probably other schemes to accelerate the process will be undertaken. Those now occupying the seats of power and wealth may well be uneasy.

A WET MAY IS WELCOME

No two years are alike from a weather standpoint. This year we are enjoying a wet month of May. Usually May is a dry month, but no rule holds good very long insofar as weather is concerned.

A wet May gives crops a chance to germinate well. The soil is saturated and water reserves provided in case drought follows in June. A wet May gives hope and encouragement to all in the areas of scanty rainfall.

Vast appropriations are also being made for social purposes. Few are following the advice of the old school of economics, of which Prof. Gregory is an ardent advocate.

Wealth is being redistributed through the incidence of taxation at present, and probably other schemes to accelerate the process will be undertaken. Those now occupying the seats of power and wealth may well be uneasy.

Short short story: Sail—gale—pale—rail.

Ten Minutes
with the Scotch Philosopher

"Happy days are here again!"
The winds have subsided and the sun is once more shining down on the green fields.

Well, after the long, dreary winter and miserable early spring, it is pleasant to view the scenes around us, each altered conditions.

A big gun that dwelt in this free country of ours says that the western farmer is the most shiftless and improvident man in the land. To people this may seem to contain a lot of truth, but if the average farmer was as indifferent to the welfare of his fellow men as the wiscracker and all his kind, a great many well deserved and well fed gents would roost this year both naked and hungry.

While urging a German audience to support "nature healing," Julian Stretcher, noted Jew-baiter, made the statement that the English medical science originated in Hebrews.

This might possibly apply to Germany, but the British Empire and the United States are not very deeply imbued to Hebrew activities.

Still notwithstanding, the either half-witted, moulé and antisemitic aspects came, from the brains of men who claimed descent from the Anglo-Saxon and Celtic races.

I could readily enlarge on the subject but the foregoing statement will receive greater prominence in the efforts being made to relieve him from suffering. The English-speaking race is not behind any others.

Likewise, the refrigerated train, which has proven to be highly valuable, has followed with interest the negotiations between the C.P.R. and the farmers of the eastern block.

Judging the matter from a distance it seems as if the settlers have now the opportunity of paying for the farm which, in all probability, they improve themselves.

Of course there are bound to be men who, for personal reasons, do not feel satisfied with the outcome, but the die has been cast and all concerned should work for the improvement in the general harmony.

Differences will have to be faced and it would be much easier for all if they would march along in that conquering spirit so aptly described by Kipling:

"It's not the individual, but the army that wins."

And the close cooperation of every blooming soul.

Meanwhile, the eyes of many farmers all over the continent will be turned in the direction of the new enterprise with the hope that it will be crowned with success.

However, a study of the plan will show the futility of such arrangements for the maintenance of peace.

Just a few weeks ago, the chair man of a meeting called on an old timer to air his views on the political situation.

"Mr. Chairman," replied the aged lad, "I am so tickled by the protection given me by the U.F.A. government and the promise of twenty-five cents a month from Social Credit, I wish them to fight would form a kind of political alliance."

The news that Russia and France have signed a "mutual assistance pact" reminds us that the world is indeed a dangerous and unfriendly place.

These two countries have nothing in common except the fear of a powerful opponent and think their combined forces will present hostile aggression.

However, a study of the plan will show the futility of such arrangements for the maintenance of peace.

F. H. Pickle, Conservative M.P. for Brorneo-Mississauga, in a recent speech in the house of commons compared the position of the farmer today and his happier condition under a Liberal government.

"The farmer never plays golf," he said. "The nearest the farmer ever gets to playing golf is when he knocks the dried up tufts of fertilizer around his fields with a mallet. That is all the golf he gets."

"Why, Mr. Speaker," he continued, "one would not fit in suits for a fortnight. The farmer is wondering where he is going to get his next pair of overalls. That is the position in which he finds himself. The farmer in normal times is by far odds the heaviest consumer, the heaviest spender in the dominion of Canada. Let him get his just share of what he produces he will be able to absorb one-half or three-quarters of the present-day unemployment. But today the farmer is unable to buy, and what work is done on the farm he has to do himself. As I said a few minutes ago, we have gone industrially crazy, and the primary producer, the expense of the primary producer.

Along in 1927, 1928 and 1929,

we saw an example of what a stan-

PRAIRIE WINDS

By TIM LONGBOOTH

You are going back to England
but you'll come back some day;

Till you hasten to obey;

Voices from the open spaces,

Murmurings of winding streams,

Memories of our magic sunsets,

Will be haunting all your dreams.

As you wander in the twilight

Scenes of yore will come again,

And you'll see the spreading prairie,

Fresh and fragrant in the rain;

Or perchance your thoughts will wander

Back to some November day

When the snowflakes softly falling

Seemed to waft your cares away.

In the thronging streets of commerce

Oh, how lonesome you will be!

And you'll pine for the old west

And the rolling prairies of the great

England wears the crown of beauty,

But for you 'twill not avail;

Prairie winds will ever call you

'Til you take the westward trail.
